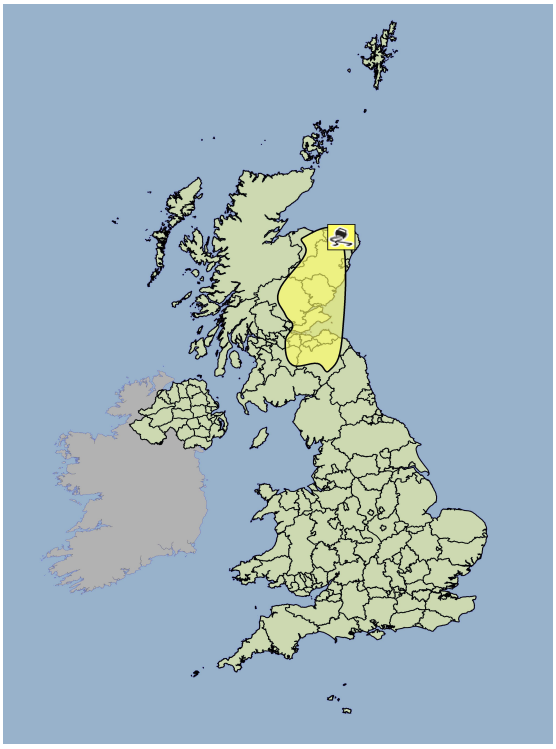
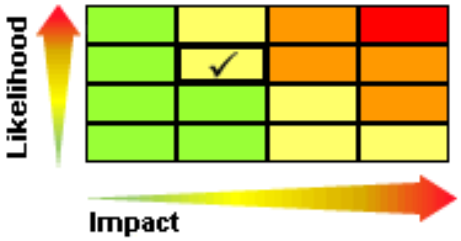
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Surfaces will remain cold despite some rain for a time tonight, with icy conditions forming again later.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 03:00 on Thu, 15th Jan 2015 until 10:00 on Thu, 15th Jan 2015

Outbreaks of rain, preceded by snow, (and staying as snow on higher roads above about 500 or 600m), will clear away northeastwards early on Thursday morning. Skies will then clear, allowing temperatures to fall, leading to icy stretches on untreated roads and pavements.

The public should be aware of the potential for tricky travel conditions.
